NRBHSS BOD ELECTIONS: ALL FOR NEW LEADERS

Kuujuuaq, October 9, 2024 – The Nunavik Regional Board of Health and Social Services (NRBHSS) is pleased to announce the upcoming elections for new board members, offering an exciting opportunity for citizens to get involved in shaping the future of Nunavik's health and social services. With the election date set for November 6th 2024, we encourage all community members, especially the next generation of leaders to consider stepping forward as candidates.

The NRBHSS plays a vital role in overseeing health and social services across Nunavik. Board members collaborate on decisions that impact healthcare access, community well-being and support systems throughout the region. With the ongoing commitment to improving services, this election represents a unique chance for citizens to directly contribute to a healthier, stronger Nunavik.

"This election is not only a routine process, but a chance for fresh perspectives to make meaningful contributions," said Shirley White-Dupuis, Chairperson at NRBHSS. "We encourage younger and interested candidates to take leadership roles in their communities, we need healthy minds and fresh ideas for Nunavik. Please put your name forward to be part of NRBHSS."

Anyone over 18 years old, residing in Quebec and without recent criminal charges, willing to influence policies and strategies that promote wellness across Nunavik, or to help shape the future of health care and social services for generations to come is invited to submit their candidacy.

Apply by November 6th by contacting the NV Secretary Treasurer of your community.

Key Dates:

- Deadline to submit a candidacy: November 6th 2024
